Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

We must confess to a good healthy dislike of Governor Olson, as governor of California. We think it a humiliating experience to have a governor of his calibre as chief executive of California, and the same goes for the late Governors Rolph and Merriam. For different reasons they were all second rate governors. We won't say they were all politically corrupt but they have added no lustre to the Goddess of Liberty and the Bear that adorn the Great Seal of California.

Nevertheless we still believe it would be a mistake to recall Governor Olson, even though one of California's outstanding editors now advocates that course. Just privately, we would hate to be seen in the parade with the Ham and Eggers, the unspeakable Patterson and his yawpers, the CIO, the Independent Oil Producers, and the half-witted and the Godsaken. We have our objectives in politics and certain ideals of government and none of them consort harmoniously with the miscellaneous denizens of the outer darkness who are attempting to oust the Governor through a recall election. Privately, again, we think California has deserved the punishment of such a governor as Olson. A demagogue and opportunist, intellectually, if in no other sense, thoroughly dishonest, who first appoints incompetent and lickspital followers to the state's important offices and then fires them because they are incompetent lickspitals. And yet, Olson convinced the majority of Californians that he would be a first class governor. Without looking at his record, without even knowing anything about the man, a credulous majority of the people took him at face value and put him into the state's highest post.

Now having elected the man that California richly deserves to endure as governor, we have a feeling that we should drink this cup of bitterness to the dregs, in order that for some years to come we will remember this bloomer the electorate pulled, and fight shy of the honey voiced, the specious reasoners, the opportunists, and the suave dispensers of buncome and universal panceas. We should as voters, learn this lesson well and not dismiss our teacher in the middle of a school day.

Now supposing the recall election does take place, we note a formidable array of potential candidates. The spavined, the heaving, the mentally crippled, the one eyed and loco weed eaters are being curried for the race. Shall we prefer one of these unknown evils for one that every intelligent voter can now size up, and take proper measures to politically sterilize and stultify? Better Olson than Patterson, or one that he may choose. Better Olson than Willis Allen or one of his fanatics. And while we voted to kill the Oil Control bill, better Olson than any man put up by a special interest in the oil business.

Two more years of Olson will thoroughly disillusion or disgust a big majority of the electorate. It will then be impossible to elect another political chameleon to the state's highest office. Two more years of Olson and a great big majority will put all candidates for governor under a microscopic scrutiny. For years to come voters will say to each other on election day, "Be careful how you vote. Remember that fella Olson."

Of course, a great many people argue, that "you can't do worse than Olson" in a recall election. Ah, but you can. That is the very point we hope to have made clear. We could for instance have a Patterson. We could have that notorious exploiter of the gullible and the aged, Willis Allen. Either man would be a poor swap for Olson. So far as Olson is now concerned aside from making California the national laughing stock, he can do the state little harm. The legislature has his number, and there is every prospect that the economy bloc will be considerably strengthened this fall. Some of the radicals that have been giving their self-serving support to Olson are very likely to be eliminated this fall. If the governor actually makes good his threat of 'purge," in the Roosevelt manner, even the corporals guard that now supports him in the legislature may be eliminated. So why in the world should be recall Olson?

LOCAL SCOUTS AT QUAKER HILL OVER WEEK END

Albert Pratti, local Boy Scout officer, and seventeen Boy Scouts spent Saturday afternoon and night at Camp Pratti in the Quaker Hill district east of Nevada City. The boys went to camp in a truck and slept out in the open near the spring and log cabin. After breakfast the group went on a three mile nature observation hike from camp. It is stated that a number of the boys did not sleep very well as it was felt there was a wild animal prowling about. Last year the boys had the unpleasant experience of having a bear come to visit them. The boys hiked the nine and a half miles back to town Sunday and were quite tired upon reaching their homes, but had a happy trip.

In the party were, Walter Hawkins, Kenneth Egbert, Carrol Wheeler, Bob Halcom, Don Salisbury, John Egan, Frank Richerson, Bill Hatch, Jack Seriven, Gene Hatch, Luther Marsh, Dick Green, Joe Day, Donald Boreham, Bill Wasley, Steven Bernard, Dick Gregory, Albert Pratti the scout master of Troop 6.

LIVELY INQUIRY FOR NEVADA CITY INFORMATION

H. F. Sofge, secretary of the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce, has been kept busy lately answering queries regarding this city and the county. He averages three letters daily and is sending out stories and short histories of the city and county, frequently adding a map of Nevada City.

He has just received a call from the Redlands Chamber of Commerce for a supply of folders of this district; two ladies of Anacortes, Washington stopped over to inquire for folders on schools here. Since the first of the year he has purchased 85 maps from the Tahoe national forest regional office in San Francisco and has sold 65 of these, as the local office does not sell these maps.

TREE PLANTING IN FOREST HILL AREA WILL BEGIN AGAIN

Jupiter Pluvius has given his consent to the resumption of planting operations on the Forest Hill 1936 burn area of the Tahoe national forest according to Guerdon Ellis, forest supervisor at Nevada City. Planting was begun on March 25 by a crew of 100 CCC enrollees from Forest Hill and Grass Valley camps directed by ten crew leaders. After one day's planting, the heavy rains caused secession of activities and the roads, according to Ellis, did not dry up sufficiently to reach the planting area until now. A total of 140,000 ponderosa and Jeffrey pine trees are to be planted. Forest officers report a very satisfactory survival from the past two years planting and with the more favorable season this year, they expect to go a long way in repairing the loss caused by the disastrous 1936 fire.

FOUR ACCUSED OF CAR THEFT

Highway Patrol Officer Art Barrick stationed at Truckee brought four alleged car thieves to the sheriff's office at an early hour this morning to be booked on the charge. Barrick caught the alleged offenders last evening after hearing their description over a radio broadcast. The group are Mike Jack Simeone, 32 years; Ethel Juanita Leta, 50 years, Gordon Jason Hawkins, 21 years and Lorraine Spinelli, 19 years. Lorraine Spinelli is the daughter of Mrs. Leta. The alleged offenders, it is stated, stole the machine in San Francisco.

L. Herrick, of the highway patrol came up from Sacramento and took the arrested men and women to that city to stand trial. Upon investigation it was found there was a .38 calibre revolver and three billies in Mrs. Leta's grip.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Larsen stated he saw the two women last Friday on the highway near Dixon when he was returning from the lower country. They were trying to hitch hike their way, and as soon as the women got out of the car at the court house he recognized them.

GOOD GOLD PANS AT RUCKY CHUCKY DAM SITE SLIDE

It is reported that miners and prospectors are making as high as $30 and $40 daily by working the earth and rubble left behind by the recent immense slide at the Ruck-A-Chucky dam site on the American river. Men employed on the dam, prospectors and miners are making good cleanups. Three of the men recovered a quart jar full of gold where the ledges were exposed. School children ployed "hookey" from school and some of them picked up as much as $25 a day panning gold.

The heavy storms of March caused large sections of earth and rock to slide into the river damming up the stream flow for a time. Due to this mishap some doubt has been expressed regarding the probability of building a dam there.

WELFARE GROUP RECEIVES PRAISE FROM EDUCATORS

Nevada City though a comparatively small community received a great deal of praise at the district meeting of California Parent Teachers Association for their splendid civic co-operation.

Many districts there, represented with much greater population, looked with envy on the fine record made last year on the work of the Co-ordinating Council, made of the Rotary Club, fraternal and civic organizations of the city.

They particularly praised the city council for their sympathetic understanding and substantial support in this worthwhile enterprise and many were determined to confront their civic officers, and ask that similar support be given in Sacramento and other districts to an organization that has for its sole purpose the aid for youth.

The Elementary Parent Teachers are very anxious to again contribute to the Co-ordinating Council and have secured Katherine Kitchen (cooking expert of the Sacramento Bee) to come to Nevada City high school auditorium at 7:45 Tuesday evening, April 23. Miss Kitchen is not only an expert in culinary art she is a very fine dramatic reader. She delighted a large audience in Grass Valley recently as she possesses a very pleasing personality.

She will read a comedy entitled "The Male Animal," which is enjoying a very popular run now on Broadway. Further notices will appear later in the papers. Tickets may be secured from members of the P. T. A. or at Colley's Confectionery.

Request has been made by many mothers for a kindergarten for the small children. The Elementary P. T. A. are desirous of securing names to determine if there is a great enough need for one. They would appreciate anyone interested to please call Mrs. Edwin Berger, phone 537M or Mrs. Clyde Gwin, phone 265. A child must be five years old before January 1 in order to be eligible.

PIONEER WOMAN OF 92 IS BORNE TO FINAL REST

Private funeral services were held yesterday morning for the late Mrs. Harriett Fidela Shaw Legg, who passed away, at the age of 92, Friday afternoon. The officers of the Evangeline chapter of O. E. S. conducted the services at the grave side in Pine Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Legg was born near Hillsborough, Union County, Arkansas, on July 1, 1848. She came to California in 1866. Her birthplace was near the Mississippi river and her father built a flat boat, covered with an ark-like arrangement similar to a covered wagon.

He loaded his family and household effects on the boat and started to float down the river near which they lived, into the Mississippi and down to New Orleans. But the wash of the first big river steamer they passed almost swamped them and the plan was changed.

They floated to the first landing on the Mississippi and boarded a steamer for New Orleans, intending to go from there to the Isthmus of Panama, cross it, and take a steamer from the west coast to San Francisco.

But they could not obtain steamer passage from New Orleans to Panama and they had to proceed to New York City and take a steamer from there to the Isthmus. The steamer upon which they made this part of the journey was the famous "Aspinwall" and it was to a port of this name, on the Isthmus that they sailed from New York.

Landing there, they crossed the Isthmus on the railroad and proceeded up the west coast to San Francisco on the steamer Sacramento. They stayed in San Francisco for a short time and then went to Sacramento on a steamer, thence overland to Lincoln, and Spenceville from which point they went to Pleasant Valley where she lived until she married the late Tom Legg on July 1, 1869, which was her 21st birthday.

They lived first at Omega where her husband conducted a store and hotel. In 1878 they came to Nevada City and moved into quarters over what was known as the Legg and Shaw store on the corner of Union and Main streets. There she lived for more than 60 years, moving from there after she suffered a fracture of the hip, an injury from which she never fully recovered.

Mrs. Legg's long life was full of adventures. Her home in Union county was raided by Union soldiers searching for cotton, which they confiscated and burned. Her daughter in law, Mrs. George Legg, has samples of home spun cotton cloth made by her. During the trip down the river to New Orleans they heard the guns in the siege of Vicksburg, one of the closing battles of the Civil War.

Her journey to California was one of hardship and adventure. She was among the first settlers in Pleasant Valley; Omega, her first home after her marriage was a pioneer mining camp, saw its ups and downs and left it when the roar of its monitors was silenced by court decree.

She was beloved by all who knew her. She was for more than 50 years a member of Evangeline Chapter of the Eastern Star and took an active interest for many years. She was a member of the old time whist clubs that flourished in Nevada City in the eighties and nineties.

She is survived by one son, George A. Legg of this city; three grandchildren, George Bradley Legg of Berkeley; Miss Fidella Legg of Vallejo and Tom Legg of this city and a brother, Ed Piper og Grass Valley. Mrs. Susie Tully of Sacramento, a sister.

Citizenship Week

It is indeed fitting, at this time when human freedom is lost or hangs in the balance in so many parts of the world, that Americans should decide to set aside an entire week, April 29-May 5, for observance of the blessings of free government. And yet, as Senator Edward H. Tickle of Carmel pointed out in an address last week the value of Citizenship Week will be little if most citizens celebrate it in a taken-for-granted spirit. "We need," he declared, "not a week limited to blind celebration—but a week devoted to aroused rededication of Americans to the task of preserving and safeguarding liberties that are now, today, in grave danger. Particularly do we need such patriotic rededication here in California. We have listened to the siren call of Communists and their accomplices: we have yielded to the demands of the Workers' Alliance and the other pressure gangs which feed on human misery: we have voted more millions for relief than any other state. This state's taxes have trebled in six ears: this state is headed for bankruptcy. unless a halt is called. This state if it continues for another six years the reckless spending of the last six years, if it permits itself to be short-changed and taxed to the breaking point by bureaucratic, autocratic, public officials—will no longer be free California. It will be bankrupt California: regimented California: goose-stepping California; victimized California America is still the land of opportunity—the finest freest land in all the world. Let's keep California that way. Let's stop fighting private industry and private initiative. Let's stop sabotaging America. Let's resolve, in our fine Citizenship Week, to fight as individual voters and citizens for sanity and economy. for liberty and decency."

Such a statement from a member of the legislative economy bloc, is also a fitting prelude to the observance of Citizenship Week. The spirit of '76. that made America a nation of freemen, must be an eternal living spirit, if America is to remain eternally and wholly free.

Whim Of Circumstance

Save for a whim of circumstance—the wrong guess of one man—the Union Jack of Great Britain might fly over California today, as Dave Drummond. author and student of Californiana, revealed last week. In 1841, when the surge of British Expansion in North America followed the vanguard of the great Hudson Bay Company, Sir James Douglas arrived in California to establish a trading post in San Francisco, and negotiated valuable trade concessions with the Mexican governor. Had he been successful, the tide of empire would have flooded after him. But when a revolution against the Mexican authorities broke out, Sir James guessed wrong. He backed the revolutionists. They lost. In consequence. he made many enemies. his ventures failed. Meanwhile Americans streamed in. At last, in 1845, Sir James committed suicide. Next year the Hudson Bay Company withdrew. A few more months later the Stars and Stripes were raised. It may be more than coincidental, too, that about the same time England gave up hope of developing California, she relinquished all claims to the wilderness called the Oregon Country—now including the States of Washington and Oregon — and so abandoned thought of adding the immense and immensely rich Pacific Coast of modern America to her empire. Fate plays many such strange tricks with human destiny. In life, of individual, state and nation, the whim of circumstances is the imponderable, eternally unpredictable element of fate.

Hitler Meets The Fleet

When the horror of Nazi "blitzkrieg" struck peaceful little Norway last week, there was—for the first time in the long series of German aggressions on helpless peoples—an admixture of the magnificent, of the facinating, in the terrible drama of destruction. As in Poland, as in Czecho-Slovakia, the Nazis moved in with amazing precision, with clockwork efficiency. Sky-darkening masses of bombers, flotillas of submarines, miue fields, battleships and destroyers convoyed troop ships across the "impregnable" Skagerrak. Goebbels gibed at Britain for having "again missed the boat." Then the great grey battlefleet struck. It smashed through mines and the rain of bombs. Some ships went down. But the Britsih lion, aroused to fury, roared on to smash the Nazi fleet and break the "impregnable" line of Nazi sea communication with Norway. One battle doesn't win a war. But that one battle showed Herr Hitler that invasions against resolute men and 16-inch guns are quite different from parades of armed might through crows of fear-stricken women and children. This country is neutral, and intends to remain that way. But it would be hypocritical to pretend that million of Americans didn't thrill to the news that Hitler met the fleet—and the fleet broke through!

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder now that spring has come
With buds and blossoms in her hair,
With soft green carpets neath her feet
And skies above serenely fair,
If we, who love the sunlight hours
Will safeguard every precious thing,
Nor mar with eager, careless hands
The fragile lovliness of spring.

I wonder if to any other region spring comes with so much of charm and lavish beauty as to our golden kingdom of the west.

Spring comes easily to the hills and valleys of California: upon a day the storm clouds fly away. warm sunlight spills down from blue. untroubled skies, and soft breezes whisper across the enchanted land; we look about us almost unbelievingly, and exclaim happily, "spring has come."

I wonder if we have learned to fully value, appreciate and conserve the entrancing lovliness of spring. It is a rare accomplishment to be able to "stand and stare," at a flowering shrub, a wildwood bower and then leave it unharmed so that others may find in it the same pleasure which we, ourselves have enjoyed. After all, beauty treasured in the mind; the pictures we hand on memory's wall will long outlast the fragile blossoms which so often fade with the gathering. Gather wild flowers? Of course, but in the gathering, may we refrain from the utter destruction which so many flower lovers leave in their thoughtless wake.

Little children should be taught to gather wild flowers with care and consideration for delicate plantlets, flowering shrubs and trailing vines. It should be an easy matter to interest eager young minds in the habits of flowers and in the necessity of flower conservation. Little children should be joyous and beautiful adjuncts to the magic panorama of each returning spring, it is our fault, parents and teachers, if instead they function as little animated forces of destruction.

Years ago there were two little girls, who, each spring rambled away to visit the red bells which bloomed sparingly in certain coigns of the nearby hills. Strangely these questing youngsters never gathered their beloved flowers, instead, they sat down by the tall, graceful stalks and admired—adoringly admired the swaying bells until prompted to wander on to other fairy paths where other varieties of flowers grew in greater profusion and could conscientiously be gathered and made into boquets for the delight of mother or teacher.

I wonder how these children acquired the code which governed their companionship with flowers; was it born of inherent instincts, or imposed by parents and teachers? Perhaps the fairies taught it, for—

The fairies never harm flowers,
It simply isn't done.

Answers to these questions are not essential: the important fact is, that in the observance of self imposed rules of conduct, the two little girls created for themselves rare and lovely memories which the years have not destroyed—memories of shady, sylvan retreats, where the red bells grew unharmed and were permitted to complete the cycle of their plant life and to come again into the heart of another and yet another smiling year. —A. POLITICAL PARADE

BY CLEM WHITAKER

High moguls of the Democratic and Republican parties, who have zealously bashed each other's heads for years on end, may be so occupied at the moment, with preparations for another season of political mayhem that they have missed the full significance of a new and vital alignment which is taking place in the body politic.

There is a mounting ground swell of public opinion, however, on two fundamental, closely related issues, which is rapidly obliterating many minor partisan considerations—and which might well result in a coalition of like groups in the two major parties to achieve their common objectives.

And that trend, if it continues, will result, in the final analysis, either in the overthrow of the present "two party system," with a new third party movement taking up the cudgels for the new issues which have become dominant, or in one of the existing parties stepping into the breach with a vigorous program to meet the situation.

The issues which have brought a new line of cleavage are these.

1.—Private enterprise versus government enterprise; business versus bureaucracy; individual initiative vs. totalitarian regimentation. There is a "grass roots" movement in both parties, spring from rank and file voters, to oppose any further experimentation here with the totalitarian ("big government") dictatorship policies, which have given rise to dictatorships in other nations.

2.—Increased taxation. Here again, there is a popular revolt against big spending policies of government—and the constant increase in taxes on paychecks and business incomes. This issue, however, is largely a by-product of the first. Lincoln expressed it in the words: "That government is best which governs least!" And if that policy were re-established, the problem of exhorbitant taxation would be solved.

As evidence of how far the coalition movement has progressed, it is no longer heresy for Republicans and Democrats in the legislature to sit down together and work toward common objectives, as proved by the bipartisan legislative economy bloc. And when the members of the economy bloc come up for election this fall, the new line of cleavage will become a reality the economy-minded lawmakers will be supported by tax-minded Democrats and Republicans alike!

Much the same situation, in this writer's opinion, will develop, if the recall against Governor Olson qualifies. There is every likelihood of a "coalition candidate," supported by both Democrats and Republicans who are for private enterprise as against "big government", and for economy as against new taxes. And nationally, the same trend is developing. The United States will either have a new party, or one of the existing parties must declare itself unequivocally on the new issues that are now dominant.

Politically Speaking

SACRAMENTO, April 15.—(UP)—The drums are beating as the days tick off toward the May 7 presidential primary. One of the loudest booms was the resolution of confidence in President Roosevelt passed by the third term "harmony" slate.

The statement was replete with praise of the president. His re-election is the country's "greatest hope and assurance for continued peace"—"and in this critical period, we believe the people of the United States have the sovereign right to demand his continued leadership."

There likely would be disagreement from Republicans and Garnerites to the clause that "with infinite patience he has led the nation from the depths of depression." These same forces snicker at the word "harmony" in the third term ticket. Regardless, the slate is a strong one and will figure largely in the running May 7.

State Senator J. C. Garrison, a member of the Olson-Roosevelt slate, had this to say in behalf of the third termers.

"President Roosevelt's overwhelming victory in Illinois and the splendid complimentary vote in Nebraska indicates clearly that the people want the reelection of President Roosevelt and they will not be deterred by third term superstitions.

"Mr. Garner's defeat by better than 6 to 1 closely following his loss in every state in which his name has been entered in primaries shows conclusively that he will not be the standard bearer of the Democratic party.

"I am certain that California will not be out of step with the rest of the nation and will join in choosing F. D. R. over Garner and the two "cat in the bag" uninstructed delegations next month."

His parting reference was to Lt. Gov. Ellis Patterson's left wing slate for Rosevelt and the ham and egg ticket.

Not so much noise is heard from the forces seeking the recall of Gov. Olson but considerable steam is being generated by groups joining in opposition to the recall. One of the latest to take the stump against recall is James Rolph, unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor in 1938 and son of California's former Republican governor.

The keynote of the Rolph campaign is that his opinion "there is danger if the recall is successful that a representative of some discredited pension scheme or of some disappointed pressure group may be elected.

With its emphasis on economy, various legislative committees are running into opposition on their expenses during the interim. Chief bone of contention is the expense allowance of $8 per day while serving on the committee, plus 5 1-2 cents mileage. State records to date show expenses of about $10,000, with a balance of around $35,000, most of which will be consumed before the inquiries are ended.

The expenses of legislators have an interesting background, for it was the Democrats who put them an a really paying basis. It is rather ironic that the plan backfired to some extent this year, because the coalition economy bloc and anti-Olson forces control both houses and to it that few party democrats were named to committees. On the other hand, virtually every coalition democrat is represented.

Before 1937, legislators were given mileage and actual living expenses, upon presentation of paid vouchers for each expense. Then Democrats changed th eplan to an $8 daily fee, a question never legally decided. Only a few took advantage of the new payment at first but now virtually all members collect it, without presenting vouchers.

One Republican stated that he was unable to leave his business and serve on committees without repayment of some kind, although he admitted that mileage alone on a round trip between San Francisco and Los Angeles would return him around $55, whereas the fair for first class tickets and Pullman lower berth only is $26.20 and tourist fair is lower.

There is little argument that the pay of legislators—$100 per month, is hardly adequate for the time devoted to the job, at least in these days of special sessions and hectic relief squabbles. Perhaps that justifies the expense accounts.

Progression at Golf

HANFORD, Cal. (U.P.)—Four caddies, playing a foursome at the Kings Country Club, made some kind of a new record at the seventh hole, although no one has figured out a name for it. In numerical succession, Fred Salas holed it in one; Harry Yegholan holed it in two; then Jess Delgao holed it in three and finally Tommy Spear, the fourth player, holed it in four.

Theatre Has "Crying Room"

WHITEHALL, Mont. (U.P.)—A "crying room" has been added to the facilities of the Jeff theatre here for the benefit of patrons with irritable children. A loud speaker and window in the room enable parents to enjoy the show but soundproofing prevents noisy children from disturbing the rest of the audience.

Sally (on telephone)—"Oh, Betty, you must come right over and see the gorgeous engagement ring George gave me."

Betty—"See it! I wore it all last summer."

STATE DEPARTMENT ALLOCATES $75,000 FOR FIRE CONTROL

SACRAMENTO, April 12.—(UP)—Preparation for the 1940 campaign against forest fires in California is now being started under the direction of Earl Barron, newly appointed fire chief of the state division of forestry.

The state department of finance has allocated $75,000 for the forestry division to be used between April 15 and May 15 with 260 fire suppression crew members, truck drivers, cooks and similar employes to be hired this month. The staff will be augmented May 1 by 630 more workers, all from civil service lists.

New federal restrictions will not permit CCC crews to assist state fire fighters except in grave emergency.

CAMPTONVILLE NOTES

CAMPTONVILLE, April 15.—Mrs. Leo W. Chatfield and Miss Elsie Price motored to Sacramento Friday on a short visit.

The home of John Ramm narrowly escaped destruction by fire Thursday morning when the shake roof ignited by a spark falling on it and a portion of the roof burned off before it was extinguished.

Mr. and Mrs. Erle Pauly of Oakland arrived Friday night to spend the week end visiting relatives here.

Several truck loads of heavy machinery passed through town Friday enroute to the Brush Creek mine.

Camptonville Mourns Passing of Postmaster

CAMPTONVILLE, April 15.—With schools closed and all business suspended, friends gathered from miles around Friday afternoon to pay their last respects to the late Postmaster Lydia O. Groves.

At one of the largest funerals held in many years the auditorium of the local Masonic Hall was filled. Scores of beautiful floral offerings was evidence of the esteem and sentiment by which she was held in the community. The service was conducted by Dr. Henry Mills, pastor of the Methodist church of Grass Valley, in his sermon he fittingly eulogized the place Miss Groves held in the life of this community during the past years.

The following life long friends acted as pall bearers: Frank W. Meggers, Earl L. Cleveland, Julius E. Pauly, Fred J. Joubert, Richard C. Phillips and John W. Mackay.

Charity Accepted With $10,000

ROCHESTER, N. H. (U.P.)—For several years her former mill working associates had aided Miss Elizabeth Coaty, 65, in paying for her board and room. They also paid her funeral expenses when she died—and then learned she had $10,000 in money and shares of a building loan association.

FINANCE DIRECTOR PREPARING STATE ECONOMY REPORT

SACRAMENTO, April 15.—(UP)—Director of Finance John R. Richards said today a report being prepared by his department on possible economies necessary to balance the state budget is nearing completion and will be submitted to Gov. Culbert Olson in the near future.

The governor requested the economy report after it became apparent the legislature will approve little, if any, of his $50,000,000 new revenue program.

The state is now going into the red at an average rate of $2,000,000 a month, Richards said. The figure was only $1,454,000 for March because of heavy tax collections, but it will be greater at other seasons when cash receipts are lighter.

The deficit figure has been reduced $500,000 a month as a result of the curtailed relief appropriation voted by the special session of the legislature in Febuary, the departure's figures revealed.

The state's accumulated cash deficiency as of April 1 was $67,776,743, according to records of State Controller Harry B. Riley, and Richards pointed out that private financial experts had fixed figures ranging from $75,000,000 to $80,000,000 as the maximum debt the state can carry without endangering its credit.

A tourist speeding along a highway at 90 miles an hour was stopped by a policeman. "Was I driving too fast?" asked the tourist apologetically.

"Heck, no." replied the policeman. "You were flying too low."

STREAMLINE GOVT. IS PREDICTION OF EFFICIENCY GROUP

SACRAMENTO, April 15. — A "streamlined" state government as a result of the widespread state legislative committee investigations during the last two months was predicted today by legislative leaders as members of the state senate and assembly concluded hearings and started preparations of reports to be submitted when the law makers reconvene in special session May 13.

"Assemblyman Don Allen's committee on Governmental Efficiency and Economy has thoroughly investigated the working of state departments and has valuable suggestions for eliminating duplication of efforts and expenditures," Speaker Gordon Garland of the assembly said.

"Assemblyman Rodney Turner's Revenue and Taxation committee will recommend further improvements, all without any new taxation, while plans for streamlining the legislature itself are being submitted by a committee headed by Assemblyman Charles Weber. This latter committee suggests reorganization of the [illegible] money and avoid [illegible]cation."

The senior farce cast was well rewarded for their hard practice on the play by a party Friday night on the stage. The stage represented the Brown Derby in Hollywood, with dancing in the center. The members of the cast and their guests greatly enjoyed the evening.

"OF MICE AND MEN" STARTS TOMORROW AT LOCAL THEATRE

Starring Burgess Meredith, Betty Field and Lon Chaney, Jr., in an unusually important cast, Hal Roach's "Of Mice and Men," which was produced and directed by Lewis Milestone and is slated for its premiere showing at the Nevada Theatre on Tuesday unfolds a richly emotional and tensely damatic story of the migratory ranch workers of California.

Based on the best selling novel of the same name by John Steinbeck and transferred to the screen from Eugene Solow's adaption of the Broadway stage hit, "Of Mice and Men" tells the exciting story of George and Lennie and Mae on Aguora Ranch in California. George and Lennie have traveled together for years, the former devoted to his partner whose brute strength and weak mind have invariably upset their "best laid plans." But at long last it seems that their dream is to come true—they have found the money to buy a small farm of their own and to live "off the fatta the lan'." However, they haven't counted on Mae, the only woman on the ranch, married to Curley, the owner's son. It is Mae who turns their happy dream into stark tragedy, bringing the picture to a climax that is as unexpected as it is stunning.
